Me – Smoking (2008).
Jonathan Lill (b. 1967)

Jonathan writes: 'Having been admitted to the Bethlem hospital I grabbed the chance at the Bethlem pottery to try figurative sculpture. Over the years since, of admissions, unstable accommodation, occasional spells of formal art education etc., the body of my work is the one thread of progress. I have used it as a way of investigating self-perception, how other see me and how I perceive others. Only by using myself as a model was I able to accept how distorted my view of myself was, and only when my consultant was advised to see my work, was it realised how far from reality I really was. Without that recognition, I wouldn't be alive today.'

'Using myself as a model can involve hours before the mirror. On a break, and trying to think of a confrontationally effeminate pose, I saw myself with cigarette in hand. Smoking is a habit I picked up in my first time in hospital, and which I use to self-medicate to this day'.

Brief companion exams are created for three of the most influential articles from each issue. By reading the articles and completing the online exams, you can test your knowledge and earn up to 1 AMA PRA Category 1 Credit™ per article. Correct answers are highlighted for your reference upon completion of the course; there is no minimum threshold score necessary for the credit. A link from the question to the correct answer in context will also be highlighted in the associated article, thus extending the learning experience.

CME credit is only provided online, and a subscription to the AJP CME program is required. From the moment you subscribe to the AJP CME program, you will be able to select from 72 courses from among 40 possible subject areas. You'll also be able to access the next 33 courses as they become available. For more information and pricing, please go to <http://cme.psychiatryonline.org/misc/aboutajpcme.shtml>

This activity is sponsored by the American Psychiatric Association. The American Psychiatric Association is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to provide continuing medical education for physicians. The American Psychiatric Association designates each educational activity for a maximum of 1 AMA PRA Category 1 Credit™. Physicians should only claim credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.
